

A guide on some existing websites that might support children with learning at home. There is not an expectation that these are completed but it is hoped they will be useful links in helping to engage children in these different subject areas. It is also intended to support with maintaining children's mental health and wellbeing. Although internet based, many of the activities and challenges promote activities off of screens and engagement with other people within the home. Like with many things, we will continue to build on this resource over the coming weeks.

All Subject Areas

BBC Bitesize (No affiliation to the school)

A number of lessons including activities based around a learning objective and step by step guidance on mastering new learning that have been made for a number of different subjects for a number of different year groups. A resource that is growing more and more on a daily basis.

Science

Mad Science (Mad Science run weekly clubs at Princess Frederica)

Following the announcement of school closures, MAD SCIENCE ARE GOING LIVE ONLINE and we would love for you to let the parents of your school know by spreading the word.

The Mad Science Lab is in LOCKDOWN....So we're coming live to you with our science enrichment videos! We understand that schools are closed and that it may be hard and somewhat stressful to work from home AND look after children at the same time, so why not have a break and join Dr Dude in some fun, educational and entertaining Mad Science. We will be live every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 11am starting from Monday 30th March, where you can watch exciting demonstrations and practical activities... with some for you to do at home! Simply visit www.east.madscience.org, click the downward arrow from "Select Playlist" and book your E-Ticket for the live stream of your choice. Here's what you can expect next week.
